

Interpreting the Report

The scores and charts on the first two pages show cumulative averages over 12 weeks of client responses to our per-ticket survey questions. Each ticket belongs to a specific queue, and scores are reported at the queue level on page 3. The IS&T level rolls up all the surveys; Service Desk rolls up many CSS queues; Call Center is a subset of that and excludes the Repair Center, which is shown on its own. For all the charts, the 12-week window rolls forward each week, and the scores are always across that window.

The multiline charts try to convey the rhythm of service performance over time and the relative levels of satisfaction by service dimension. A high-performing service would have all its lines flowing consistently at or above 4.5 and not too far apart from each other.

Some queues have survey responses too intermittent to graph with weekly readings; those are show using only summary numbers for each dimension. The numbers are 12-week averages.

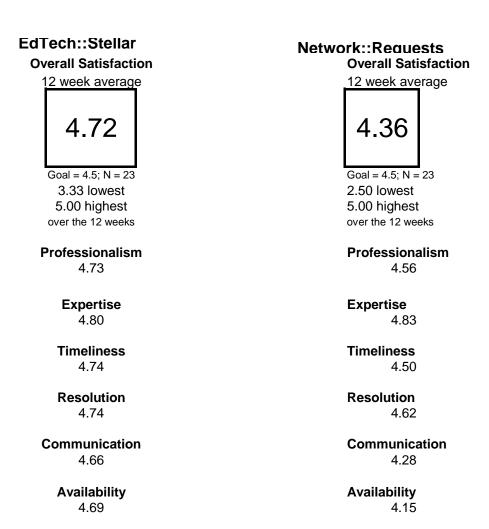

Detailed results by month by queue are shown on the third page showing up to 3 months and resetting at the beginning of the quarter. Color-

These Queues have low enough response rates per week that a weekly graph would be misleading.

All scores presented are a Quarterly average, to smooth out sparse data. Monthly detail appears in the table on the next page.

Note: the big box score of "Overall Satisfaction" refers to question 7 on the survey, not an aggregate of the other scores listed below.

				Overall my computer was repaired well (as in the fan is now working). The staff were professional and I assume they had the expertise since they repaired it. They also checked first if I had a warrantee, which is good. However, I am dissatisfied that I wasn't given the correct time frame when I consulted them. I was told it would take 3-5 days to repair my computer, when in the end it took 2 weeks, and I didn't get an email or any notification clarifying this. Even at 3-5 days, I was very reluctant to hand in my computer as I really needed it to work. Many lecture materials are online, and project groups tend to communicate by email and wiki. I understand that at this time of the year there are many computers to repair/cases to resolve, and that, I assume, was the reason it took so long to repair my computer. But I would appreciate being given the right

	#######################################	Help Desk::Service Center	###########	1.67	It took the staff weeks to order and replace the faulty components on my Dell E6400. During that time, I went without my research laptop. I wish IS&T had offered me a loaner laptop, especially once they knew that the repairs would be time consuming. I endured a lot of stress due to my computer's problems (faulty upon delivery to me) and the lack of care shown by IS&T with regard to my situation. You can feel free to contact me, if you'd like. 					As usual, all your staff are absolutely fabulous and I can't say enough about how helpful they are. In addition to explaining what to do over the phone, the follow-up email I received from the Help Desk, with a link to the Stellar tutorial, was really great

					Lisa Robinson provided the best help I've ever received from the Help Desk. It was a difficult problem, but she stuck with it until we solved it, suggesting that I make backups of some files before we proceeded, and even staying on speakerphone in order to answer my questions while I made those backups. Afterward, I was able to help a colleague who was having a similar problem using the information Lisa shared with me. Lisa is stellar! and I greatly appreciated her help. 				Staff were able to explain why I was having the problem I experienced (MIT Directory search limit), tho I was dissatisfied that the hindrance this posed to my ability to complete my work-

				In general instruct your staff to speak slowly, and clearly. It is especially difficult when dealing with staff members who are not native English speakers. Many tend too garble their words and speak at a pace appropriate to their own native language 1308515	3.33	which is very often fast relative to that common in US.

				Only thing I can think of is to be even quicker, although you Webmail was intermittently hosed over the weekend. I just needed some confirmation that it was, in fact, webmail that was hosed, and not my setup. As soon as somebody started looking at the ticket queue on Monday, they got right back to 1308106	5.00	me with enough info. What more could anybody do? Nice job! and thanks again.

				I ended up solving the problem on my ownI had to restore the factory settings on my iPhone to install the MIT certificates. However, the technician I talked with was excellent and offered 1304344	5.00	to work on my phone if I brought it in.
				My question was more organizational than technical in nature (I was trying to figure out who in IS&T I should contact about something, as opposed to getting an immediate problem solved), so maybe this wasn't the right forum for it. Even so, the first response I got back was frustrating because it didn't address my actual question, as if the representative hadn't actually read my email, or did read it but didn't know the answer, so decided to respond to a different question instead. I would have preferred an "I don't know", which would at least have saved me the time re-explaining myself. The second response was better because it gave me another email address to which I could direct my question, but it still felt like the staff 1304263	3.33	wasn't equipped to deal with this kind of inquiry.
				My only negative comment is that I'd asked to be notified by phone of any updates when I dropped off my laptop simply because I wouldn't be checking my email as religiously without a laptop, but instead only got the emailed updates to the ticket.
				Ticket responses were quite prompt and it worked out without a problem in the end, but I imagine this could be more

				You guys do a fine job. You answer the phone when you are able to. When you are not able to; I know it's because you are too busy. I've been at MIT for 31 years; the level of professionalism and the ability of IST to respond to problems has greatly improved over time. You get better & better; even

	Help Desk::Stellar	1304236	0.83	My overall dealings with Stellar this week have been horrible. There has been complete confusion about a simple request to provide websites for multiple sections of a class (21W.730) taught by different instructors. In addition, when I applied for a website for my other course, SP.401, Intro to Women's and Gender Studies, I was told that the course wasn't listed in the registrar's schedule. When I found the listing in about 5 seconds and sent it to Stellar, I was told that the problem was that the course was listed as SP-401, when it should have been SP.401. That may or may not be true, but wouldn't it make sense to check under SP.401? The impression is that these transactions are being handled completely by machine and not by an individual. Very, very poor service.  The ticket (requesting information) was logged on July 29th and I was contacted about the ticket about a week later. During that time, I was able to address my issue dealing directly with external (SAP) technical resources (I probably should have closed the ticket at that point). The support I receive from the Network team is usually very good an understanding as to the expected response time for an RT ticket would be helpful.

					The first time I sent the message it appears the staff skimmed over the original message and answered the wrong question. 					The staff wouldn't believe there was a localized technical problem with a routine network service. They had to be told many times by multiple people over the course of a month that a network service wasn't properly configured. Backchannel emails on the tickets that leaked to the users indicated that the staff believed the users who were having trouble were simply incompetent and sought to forward the issue to a call center instead of thoroughly investigated whether there was an actual problem. It finally involved the recruitment of multiple administrators at a high level to get the issue addressed. This

					Not having uploaded (large) files for ftp for several, having gotten lazy/used to just using web browsers for ftp downloads and email for sending, I needed a quick refresher on using Fetch for uploading. A quick lesson during a brief walkin was all I needed both the official help desk person and other staff present were friendly, professional, and efficient. One suggestion, though an FAQ that browsers generally can be used for downloading larger files these days, but that Fetch (or the Windows etc equivalent) is still needed for uploading, would have saved the trip in the first place. 			computing-help, I was able to pinpoint the source of the problem. Unfortunately, computing-help was not able to identify the actual cause and therefore could not suggest a solution or more importantly a means to determine if the problem happens again. The problem is rather esoteric so I am not sure that it would be reasonable to expect computing-help to resolve it. Computing-help did a good job in helping with my individual problem, but I would have liked to see someone address it at a higher level. As things stand now, any use of ESS on tables with compound keys is suspect. That includes accessing most of the data warehouse tables. I would think that the IS&T folks who are recommending FileMaker, especially as a tool to access the Data Warehouse, would want to confirm that something in my table definitions or the way I set up the ESS caused the problem, and probably identify what was wrong so they could instruct o! thers not to make the same mistake. The fact that I'm the only one reporting this problem doesn't mean it isn't happening elsewhere. The nature

		1241174	This ticket took a VERY long time to get resolved. I often went weeks without being updated on the progress, so it seemed like I was being ignored. The solutions seemed strange and fragile (why would setting language preferences cause a blocked sender to get through?) It did get resolved eventually though request to have someone check on the service. Then the response did not indicate whether anything might have been done in those 24 hours to fix the problem simply that at that point it looked like it was working. The problem I had reported had in fact gone away, but the update service was still not working at the time that I got the response. Instead, any attempt to run up2date produced the dreaded message to the effect that the metafile had a bad checksum. I tried using "yum clean" followed by "yum update" to make sure that the problem was not something at our end. That didn't fix it. This condition had happened in my experience numerous times in the past and it was always corrected when the MIT satellite was put back into synchronization with the RedHat servers. It was because of this ongoing problem that we had switched most of our servers over from the MIT satellite service to using the paid-for commercial serv! ice directly from RedHat. I did not report this
